ThyssenKrupp Access Acquires Commercial Division of Abbey Access

Grandview, Missouri – ThyssenKrupp Access, a longtime innovator of stair lifts, wheelchair lifts and residential elevators announces its acquisition of the commercial wheelchair and lift division of Abbey Access, a dealer of accessibility and elevator components in the California and Arizona market.

“This allows Abbey Home Elevator to focus on continued growth of our residential elevator and stairlift business,” said Brian Nichols, owner of Abbey Access.

“It’s a win-win situation. Abbey Access can focus on growth of their residential market while ThyssenKrupp Access will bring the industry expertise our customers have come to expect to California,” said Thomas Hance, President of ThyssenKrupp Access.

Abbey Access continues to conduct business in the residential arena, while ThyssenKrupp Access has acquired and will operate the Commercial wheelchair and lift division. Running operations in the Fresno, CA office is Rex Flanagan.

About Abbey Access

Abbey Access was opened in 1990 to serve the accessibility needs of those in the California, Arizona and Nevada area. Today Abbey sells, installs and services residential elevators and stair lifts.
